harold/lil/hi

here, not as tardily as might be expected, are the NYTimes fantasies on MLK and the Ray of sunshine shadows from Jan.1&2!!!

curiouser and curioser is that the second instalment, dated Jan. 1 has a tail-end review of the CBS opus on MLK which according to NYTimes was broadcast Dec. 31 -- it was broadcast Jan. 2 in New York at least.

for the sake of curiosity, hv included a zerocks (proprietary term) of an old and battered NYTimes clip I found deep in the recesses of my wallowed wallet.

It has always been curious that there were so many "attempts" on the life of Gerald Ford and none on life of Richard Nixon -- unless you count that 1973 flap (or flapdoodle)? about the New Orleans "plot" to assasinate Nixon or the peripinations of Edwin M. Gaudet.

my best (and more) to you both

Bob R.
